

Branch: Cosmetic aesthetics: beauty care, advice, sales

Code: BEAUTI

Option: Beautician

Level : CAP

Prerequisites : First cycle study certificate

Opportunities :

Most of them work in beauty salons, perfumeries, hairdressing salons and department stores or supermarkets. Some of them choose to work in hospitals, pharmacies, etc.

Description

The profession of aesthetician is far from being carried out according to the type of skin does not make to form near professionals perfect constantly are the axes of the techniques used in aesthetics obvious. Decide on the care not to lightly. A beauty care specialist, the beautician enhances the face and body. While facials are an important part of their work, body treatments are becoming increasingly important. Beauticians also take care of hands and nails. Finally, they participate in the sale of products and advise customers.

Beautifying the skin, enhancing the face, maintaining the body... this is the art of the beautician. The profession is not limited to facials. This is why, in biology, the cellular and tissue organisation of living beings, the muscular system, the nervous system, the functions of nutrition, the structure of the epidermis, the different types of skin are studied... The nature and characteristics of the products used in cosmetology (water, alcohols, vitamins), perfumes, the different make-up products, hair products and depilation are also studied.

Part of the training is devoted to the presentation of equipment and care techniques: spraying and vaporising devices, exfoliating products, masks, manual techniques for modelling, depilation, make-up, manicure, etc. Artistic courses, sales techniques and knowledge of the company complete this programme.

Quality and competences :

It must be able to adapt products to the needs of each customer.